Why ToastJakey's Face Reveal is a Joke

Written by GracieTheCat

Have you ever wanted to see your favourite creator's face reveal? Recently, ToastyJakey had posted a "face reveal" onto his discord server, but there are a few flaws in that face reveal that are quite noticeable. So we are going to look further into the video, and how it is actually not ToastyJakey saying this.

The first thing that could be noticeable is the voice of the person on camera. The first thing you hear when you start watching the video is: "Hello everyone, it is I, ToastyJakey, and I finally decided to do a face reveal." This voice does not line up with the on-stream voices when you watch his videos or previous live streams. Furthermore it doesn't really sound like any of ToastyJakey's many voices that he did in the past, providing my claim that ToastyJakey is just doing this as a joke.

The second thing that is blatantly noticeable is the logo that appears midway around the top right corner of the video. Around when the person on camera is presumably praising some hobbies that like, the cameo logo fades into the video. Cameo is a website where you can pay someone to say things on camera for your personal uses. So if there is a Cameo logo in the video, this would lead to the video being commissioned and that this person was in fact not ToastyJakey, but rather a paid actor that is being paid to do this video by ToastyJakey, furthermore adding onto my claim that ToastyJakey is just doing this as a joke.

The third and final thing that is noticeable is that at the end of the video, it shows a cameo profile. The profile belonged to SephirothSword57, which is another YouTuber. They have a star rating of 4.99 and the price of $15 for a video from him with the message you sent for him to read out, this could mean that ToastyJakey could have sent a script to him and he would have read it out on camera, and had gotten paid 15 dollars of US currency for faking someone else's face reveal, therefore proving my claim to be correct.

So to rewind, the voice of this person was different, there was the cameo logo in the video, and then there is the cameo profile at the end of the video. So the person on video is a completely different person from ToastyJakey and that the face reveal was a total joke from ToastyJakey. So ToastyJakey had paid someone else with the role of a YouTuber $15 to say these things and to fake the face reveal for ToastyJakey that would have then been posted onto the discord server. So far all of the evidence points to the face reveal being bogus and that this was all a joke in the discord server. It is very noteworthy to keep an eye on what this banana profile picture is showing us audience members and to look before believing. And just remember dear readers, don't trust anything you see unless you think it is proven to be correct, and look for the facts before assuming it is correct.